North Pocono

One North Pocono senior has received leadership training from a Scranton business organization.

One of two students selected in the school district for the program, Brianna Alunni participated in Tomorrow's Leaders Today through the Greater Scranton Chamber of Commerce.

The leadership program is designed to give high school students leadership, interpersonal and managerial skills and the opportunity to explore teamwork. North Pocono received a grant for students to participate in the program as a result of their work to implement a suicide prevention screen, TeenScreen.

Brianna also serves as president of the Friends of Rachel Club, an extension of the Rachel's Challenge program that promotes a healthy and positive school environment. A future event planned at the high school is Mix it Up Day, in which students will sit with others whom they normally would not spend their lunch hour with.
