Matt Caputo is adding six more AP classes during his senior year, adding to the 12 he has already completed.

His academic achievements earned him recognition by the College Board as an AP Scholar with Distinction. A member of the National Honor Society, Matt has been a high honor student throughout his high school career. He serves as an executive officer in student council, was a recent organizer of the Red Cross donation to hurricane Harvey and Irma victims and tutors Moscow Elementary Center students in English during the spring.

English during the spring.

Also sports-minded, Matt serves as a football captain and plans on playing basketball and track later in the year. His next goal is to receive a nomination to the United States Naval Academy or West Point to study engineering.
